Scope of the Meeting

With the steadily growing awareness surrounding the many sources of non-ionising radiation and the publication of EU Directives for their use in the workplace, the SRP's Non-ionising Radiation Topic Group has organised a meeting to address some of the key issues in the field.

The aim of the meeting is to provide an update on the EU Directives on both EM and Optical Radiation and their translation into UK Regulations. Speakers will also discuss the types of sources that might be encountered and ways in which those sources can be 'measured'.

CPD Scheme: 5 Points max

For Those Under 35

A limited number of registrations will be available free on application.

Travel expenses may also be applied for. Applications should be submitted on the standard form (see the SRP web site www.srp-uk.org or contact the Administrative Office on 01364 644487, admin@srp-uk.org

Formation and Objects

The Society for Radiological Protection (SRP) was founded in May 1963. It is a Learned Society with a Constitution, Regulations and Bylaws and is a Registered Charity (No. 264337).

The objects of the society are:

- (a) to promote and advance the science and art of radiological protection and allied fields;
- (b) to promote, advance and disseminate, to the public advantage, knowledge of radiological protection and allied fields;
- (c) to encourage, support, promote and advance education and learning in radiological protection and allied fields;
- (d) to promote and encourage high scientific, educational, regulatory and professional standards in radiological protection and allied fields.

The Society achieves its objectives by meetings, publications, conferences and lectures with an emphasis on those subjects which contribute to the knowledge and practice of radiological protection.

The Society for Radiological Protection is the UK member of the International Radiation Protection Association (IRPA) which provides for international co-operation in all aspects of radiological protection including the holding of international conferences. The Society has an official publication, the Journal of Radiological Protection, which is published quarterly and is supplied free to members.

Membership

Members of the Society-Honorary Fellows, Fellows, Full, Associate, Graduate, Student and Affiliate Members-work in industry, government, advisory bodies, universities and hospitals. The Society wishes to encourage applications for membership from those who are eligible and who wish to further its objectives. Information and application forms are available from:
